The success of your exhibitor's experience depends on them managing sales leads

Lead retrieval products that ensure a successful show

When exhibiting at trade shows, it is not about how many people exhibitors spoke to or how busy their booth was. Exhibiting success depends on how they manage their sales leads from the show. Reports show that up to 70% of sales leads captured at trade shows are not followed up on properly. This is mainly due to an ineffective lead management process, before, during and after the event. To allow the best ROI and fully maximize exhibitor's post show sales opportunities, they need to effectively track who is interested in their product or services. ExpoDemand lead management equipment provides them all the tools that are necessary to attain the best possible ROI at events.
